“ Candace was my big sister and best friend. When she married and moved to the USA to raise her family we were merely separated by miles our bond remained strong. In the last several years we played words with friends every day texting often on the gaming platform. She was an avid scrabble player beating me often but always offering tips to help me win. I lost my sister way too soon and know that she is now with Mom in heaven playing scrabble with the master. Rest in peace both of you. Brett aka Grasshopper in Words with Friends
